THE LOVE STORY

JEFFREY & DORCAS.

[If the following were an extract from fic-tion, it would deserve notice for its touching pathos and truth to nature. For our coun-ry's sake we would that it were such ; but it is simply a newspaper report of one of the siaves near Savannah, on the 2d and 3d of the past month.]

Jeffrey, chattle No 319, marked as "prime cotton hand," aged 23 years was put up. Jeffrey being a likely lad, the competition was high. The first bid was $1,100, and he was finally sold for $1,310. Jeffrey was sold alone; he had no incumbrance, in the shape of an aged father or mother, who must be necessarily sold with him; nor had he any children, for he was not married. But Jeffrey, chattel No 319, being human in his affections, had dared to cherish a love for Dorens, chattle No 278; and Dorens, not having the fear of her master before her whether what followed was a just retribution on Jeffrey and Dorcas, for daring to take such liberties with heir master's property as to exchange hearts, or whether it only goes to prove that with black as with white the sayng holds, that " the course of true ove never did run smooth," cannot pe told. Certain it is that these two overs were not to realize the consumnation of their hopes in happy wedheir loves, had exchanged their simple vows, and were betrothed, each to the other as dear, and each by the ther as fondly loved, as though their skins had been of fairer color. And who shall say that in the sight of Jeaven and all the holy angels, these we humble hearts were not as closely wedded as any two of the prouder ace that call them slaves? Be that as it may, Jeffrey was sold. He finds out his new master; and, hat in hand, the big tears standing in his eyes, and his voice trembling with muotion, he stands before that master and tells his simple story, praying with him. Though his voice trembles, here is no embarrassment in his manner; his fears have killed all the oashfulness that would naturally atbend such a recital to a stranger, and before unsympathizing witnesses; he reels that he is pleading for the hap-piness of her he loves, as well as for iis own, and his tale is told in a frank and manly way.

"I loves Doreas, young mas'r, I oves her well an' true; she says she coves me, and I know she does; de good Lord knows I loves her better than I loves any one in de wide world -never can love another woman half so well. Please buy Dorcas, mas'r. We're be good sarvants to you long as we live. We're be married right soon, young mas'r, and the chillun will be healthy and strong mas'r and ley'll be good sarvants too. Please iny Dorcas, young mas r. We loves each other a heap-do, really, true,

Jeffrey then remembers that no loves and hopes of his are to enter in-to the bargain at all, but in the carnestness of his love he has forgotten to base his plea on other ground till 113w, when he bethinks him and conines, with his voice not trembling now, save with eagerness to prove how worthy of many dollars is the maiden of his heart:

"Young mas'r, Doress prime man-A I woman Sa Tall gal Sir; long arms, strong, healthy, and can do a heap of work in a day, She is one of de best rice hands on de whole plantation; worth $1,200 ensy, mas'r an' fus'-rate bargain at that."

The man seems touched by Jeffrey's last remarks, and bids him fetch out his "gal, and let's see what she looks like." Jeffrey goes into the long room and resently returns with Dorcas, looking very sad and self-possessed, without a particle of embarrassment at the trying position in which she is placed. She makes the accustomed courtesy, and stands meekly with her hands clasped across her bosom, waiting the result. The buyer regards ber with a critical eye, and growls in a lew voice that the "gal has good p'ints." Then he goes on to a more minute and careful examination of her working abilities. He turns her round, makes her stoop, and walk; and then he takes off her turban to look at her head that no wound or disease be concealed by the gay hand-kerchief; he looks at her teeth, and feels of her arms, and at lest announees himself pleased with the result of his observations, whereat Jeffrey, who has send near, trombling with eager thope, is overjoyed, and he smiles for the first time. The buyer then crowns Jeffrey's happiness by making a promise that he will buy her, if the price

And Doreas too is smil-ing, for is not Jeffrey's happiness her

At last comes the trying moment, and Doress steps upon the stand.

But now a most unexpected feature in the drama, is for the first time unmasked; Doross is not to be sold alone, but with a family of four others. Rall of diamay, Jeffrey looks to his master, who whakes his head, for, al-though he might be induced to buy Doreas alone, he has no use for the rest of the family. Jeffrey reads his doom in his master's look, and turns away, the tears streaming down his honest face. So Doreas was sold, and her toiling life is to be spent in the cotton-fields of South Carolina, while Jeffrey goes, to the rice plantation of the Great Swamp.

And to morrow, Jeffrey and Dorcas are to say their tearful farewell, and go their separate ways in life, to meet no more as mortal beings.

But didn't Mr. Pierce Butler give them a silver dollar spiece ? Who shall say there is no magnanimity in slavcowners.

In another hour Leee Dorcas in the long room, sitting motionless as a statue, with her head covered with a shawl. And I see Jeffrey, who goes to his new master, pulls off his hat and says. Let every one been hand to-night, for this is the last time; we shall have to hear Honest Tom's cloquence before the election.

Among other queer old-fashioned fancier still prevailing in England - though happi ly long since exploded here is the idea that fitness for an office is, or should be, a necessary qualification for receiving it. To what extravagant lengths this truly preposterous notion may sometimes be carried, has been lately illustrated in the case of one Captain Vyse, who had been appointed by Ministers, to be Vice Consul at

A Meeting of Colored Voters.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of colored and other electors was held Wednesday evening in the vestry of the Union Congregational Church. It was addressed by several speakers, who maintained that the almost entire issue under consideration after all, was the Slavery question; that Rhode Island should send to Congress not only capable men, regarded as honest, but when she can, and particularly now, men of tried virtues. The meeting affirmed that in Thomas Davis they find such a man. Regret was expressed that he did not take higher ground in the Slavery question, but the Speaker-remarked that they supposed that he was a true representative of the Anti-Slavery sentiment of the State, and the wind shifted to southwest and beating in, causing the veckel to beat heavily on the tocks, and the wrokers to learn heaving moved the wrokers to commenced that they supposed that he was a true representative of the Anti-Slavery sentiment of the State, and it at it could not be expected that any man would be put in numination that several to be a proposed situation.

Br. S. T. W. Sangerd—Dear Sir;—I am here on my mission ground, and feel myself under great obligation to your Medicine for bringing me here, fitted for active service. Have used it myself and given it to my family, and have found it to be all that is recommended to be—a specific for Head Ache, and Ilyspensia, and Jaundies. I have used it freely, and used it all; but am affail if I fare as othere do, Islall be obliged to testiis efficacy in Fever and Ague. I have looked in several Aputheary Shops here, and do not find it; it should be here.

Very respectfully yours, Sc.,

Dec. 20th, 1858.

I have used the Liver lavigurator, prepared by Dr. Sanford, in my family during the past Summer, and have found it to be stickenessed by stress in my congregation, from whom it has recommended. It has also been used by others in my congregation, from whom it has received high consecution.

ONFIDENTIALLY to the afflicted.—

On J. B. Hughes still continues his old establishment, 21 HowardStreet, Boston where he can be communed up all private complaints. All persons in any way afflicted may rely our agree and speedy cure being performed.

Dr. Hughes has for a number of years paid particular attention to the study and practice of private diseases, and so perfect has he hecome acquanted with them, that, without boasting, he will warrant an effect all cure in the shortest possible time, 10 matter how long standing the case may be.

In affering the result of bis long study and practicel experience to the afflicted, he is governed by humanity only, for so long have they been debevice by miserable quack nostrums, that it is that that some healthy mode of practice should be introduced.

The old doctor professed to be eminently skilfful in curing genorrhoes gleet, stricture, syphisis in all its streets primary, secondary, teriary, or hereditry seminal weakness, nocturn demissions, general debinty, impotency, and all diseases of the urinary organs. The doctor solicits a call from all who may be afflicted with any such disease, feeling confident of success, and at a great saving of the and money to his patients.

The doctor can be consulted by letter, it the disease is accurately described, medicines will be immediately forwarded, carefully concealed.

RENCH LUNAR DROPS The only certain and safe remedy for females in all enses of Suppression or Irregularities, no matter from what cause; in all recent cases they are warranted to give relief. The Brops are the result of an extensive practice, and not discovered by a cident. To eulogize their virtues would not add to their merit; we would only say, try them. They are invariably certain to regulate the female system, and cam be taken without hazard. Fur consultation on all diseases incident to females, apply personally, or by letter, to Mrs. S. M.
